

WRITE A POEM

Write a poem about yourself, starting each line with the words "I come from". Think about the places you come from, the friends you have, the books you like – the things that make you who you are. Try to be specific. Instead of writing "I come from a small house", write something that's unique to you: "I come from a house with a yellow door and a line of broken roof tiles, from a bedroom with unicorn wallpaper".

Use a mix of long and short sentences. Write about sounds, smells, tastes and textures. Remember to name the things in your life. Shoes aren't just shoes – they're white trainers or blue Nikes or pink sandals.
